KEMEYS' ART SHOW

Memorial Exhibit Opens at Corcoran Gallery of Art.

PRIVATE VIEW AND RECEPTION

Life of the Man Who Has Been Called the Barye of America and Whose Death Occurred in This City in May Last—Public Exhibit Begins To-day and is Free to All.

A memorial exhibition of the sculptured works of Edward Kemeys opened with a private view and reception in the hemicycle of the Corcoran Gallery of Art last evening.

The exhibition comprises more than 100 bronzes and plaster casts of animals and a few Indian studies. Not since the Barye exhibition in New York has such a collection of animal sculpture been assembled in America.

Mr. Kemeys has often been called the Barye of America, and in many respects his work compares with that of the famous sculptor. The studies of Kemeys were made with finished expression as the end in view, rather than detail. Barye studied his subjects in zoological gardens, while Kemeys watched the animals in their native haunts.

Edward Kemeys was born in Savannah, Ga., of Northern parents, in 1852, and while a boy was sent to New York for his education. When the civil war broke out he enlisted in the Sixty-fifth New York Regiment, and at the close of the war ranked as captain, but even at that time had not discovered his true vocation. From his boyhood he had been deeply interested in animals, and his vacations were spent where he had opportunity to study large game in their native haunts. It was not until many years later he discovered his real ability, and made use of his knowledge of animals.

In 1887 he went abroad, and studied the works of the Old World. While he was in Europe he met Barye and became acquainted with Josef Wolf, painted animals, and gained instruction from many out-of-the-way places. In the Paris Salon of 1878 his "Bison and Wolves" was exhibited, and in England and France his ability as a sculptor was recognized, following his return to America he produced "Still Hunt," which is in Central Park, New York, and is regarded as one of the best pieces he has made. A plaster cast of this piece is included in the present exhibition.

He modeled the "Wolves," "Panther and Deer," and the "Raven and the Coyote." In 1882 he made a number of pieces for the Columbian Exposition. This last led to giving him the commission for the large bronze lions which now guard the entrance to the Chicago Art Institute.

After making his home for eight years in Chicago, Mr. Kemeys removed to Arizona. A number of bronzes made while he lived on the plains were sent to the Chicago Art Institute, and through the courtesy of the institution are being shown with the collection at the Corcoran Gallery.

From Arizona Mr. Kemeys came to this city, and until his health failed had a studio in the old Art Students' League Building. Here he modeled the great bears which adorned the entrance to the St. Louis Building at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Mr. Kemeys died May 13, 1907, and was buried in Arlington Cemetery. He was a tireless worker and in the last days of his life carried out a number of commissions he had by directing the hands of another.

Among the features of the exhibition is "Panthers and Cubs," purchased last winter by the Metropolitan Museum of Art for its permanent collection. Two small sketch models in bronze of the lions as the Chicago Art Institute, and a plaster model of a panel in relief are also shown. There are a number of plaster casts shown with their bronze replicas for the purpose of comparison, and to give an insight into the method of the work. Mrs. Kemeys, Mrs. Watson, of Chicago, the National Gallery, and many others have contributed to the exhibit.

The exhibit will be open to the public, beginning to-day, and will continue until Christmas.

WILL BUILD RAILWAY LOOP.

Commissioners Decide Against Other Tracks in the District.

On the recommendation of Commissioner Morrow, the communication of Representative Woodard, of West Virginia, received several days ago, asking if it is proposed to lay any tracks in the present limits of Bladensburg or Benning roads at or near their intersection by the Washington Railway and Electric Company, will be answered, with the information that no additional tracks will be laid.

In connection with this question the Commissioners have approved a plan proposing to "construct a loop on private property controlled by the railway company at the intersection of Benning and Bladensburg roads, this loop being desired in connection with the construction of a temporary station on it."

While the Commissioners are aware that bills were introduced in the last Congress providing for the widening of Benning road, it is not their understanding that they can reduce to grant a permit to parties to build on private property within the lines of proposed street extensions until the streets have been actually extended.

Porter to Be Brought Back.

Detective MacNamee will leave this city early this morning for Montreal, Canada, where H. A. Porter was recently arrested at the request of the local authorities, who hold a warrant charging him with embezzlement. The warrant was sworn out some time ago by Frank C. Kingsland, the Washington representative of a New York banking firm.

LECTURE AT UNITY CLUB.

Judge Edward P. Seeds Speaks on the Presidents.

The Unity Club met at 522 Sixth street northwest, the W. C. T. U. parlors, on Wednesday evening last, L. H. Patterson, the president, presiding. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read by T. M. Sullivan, the acting secretary, in which were embraced resolutions of sympathy on the recent death of Mrs. Massie Dickson McKelvey, and Benjamin E. Hall, who is one of the most valued members and the Nestor of the club. Mr. Sullivan then vacated his seat in favor of Mrs. L. J. Young Withee, who was elected the recording secretary at the last meeting.

The feature of the evening was a most entertaining lecture by Judge Edward P. Seeds, deputy auditor for the War Department. He said that of our twenty-five Presidents, only six reached the pinnacle of real greatness, supreme in character, viz.: Washington, Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland, and Roosevelt. Four of them, Judge Seeds added, just missed greatness—the two Adamses, McKelvey, and Benjamin Harrison—and Grant, he said, was great as a general, but not as a President.

Remarks were made by Henry P. Holden and Maj. George E. Lawrence, complimenting the eloquence, bearing, and lucidity of the address, after which a unanimous rising vote of thanks was extended to Judge Seeds.

The musical and literary numbers were given by C. J. Desmond, the popular encore; Charlton Howarth, the popular English tenor, a solo, "Come Back to Erin," with Desmond as accompanist. For an encore he gave "Come Back to Erin." Miss H. Ren Woodman read several original poems, "The Reem Rat," "The Captain in a Fog," "A Vicarious Vacation," and, by request, "The Little Bread-Wagon Horse," which delighted the audience. Mrs. Rosa L. Townshend, called upon for a musical number, responded with a recitation, "A Balty Mule," which elicited much merriment. The evening closed with the singing of the national anthem by Charlton Howarth.

The next meeting of the Unity Club has been postponed until the second Wednesday evening in January, when Maj. James Albert Clark will give an address.

GOVERNMENT CARE OF INSANE

Dr. William A. White, Superintendent, Submits Annual Report.

Asks Congress for Generous Appropriation for the Care and Treatment of Patients.

According to the report of Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane, submitted to the Secretary of the Interior, there were 2,548 patients remaining in the hospital June 30, 1906, as against 2,386 June 30, 1907, an increase for the year of forty-four.

During the year there were admitted to the hospital 619 patients, making a total of 3,167 under treatment.

Of the total number admitted, 409 were from civil life and 210 from the army, navy, and public health and marine hospital service. The total number of discharges for the year, including deaths, was 571, classified as follows: Recovered, 177; improved, 40; died, 216; not insane, 2.

The above figures, calculated upon a basis of total admissions, give the following percentages: Recovered, 28.36; improved, 21.84; unimproved, 4.46; deaths, 33.80.

The report, which explains that the institution is in excellent general shape, points out that the average daily number of patients is always on the increase, and that additional appropriations are needed to care for them.

An appropriation of $900,000 is asked from Congress for support, clothing, and treatment of insane sent to St. Elizabeth.

For general repairs and improvements, $40,000 is asked. Other items enumerated in the recommendations are: New entrance to gatehouse, $8,000; cow, stables, &c., $50,000; iron fence, $14,000; amusement hall, $55,000; power plant, $7,500.

Dr. White recommends abolition of jury trials in the commitment of insane persons to the hospital.
